

Reading Multiple Versions

When you look at a particular passage from the Bible, it is helpful to be able to view the verse in more than one Bible version. For example, open “Dios Habla Hoy” to Matthew 27:4. Then, use the Library icon,  , to open the resource, “La Biblia de las Américas”.

Positioning Multiple Resources

To position the two resources side-by-side, select Layouts at the right of the toolbar, as shown here:

Note the patterns,

, at the upper-left corner of the Layouts window. Click on the “2 Tiles” pattern,  . Logos now displays the two resources side-by-side, as shown here:

Synchronizing Multiple Resources

The two resources can now be synchronized so that they scroll together. To set this up, click on the small triangle to the lower-right side of the book icon for “Dios, Habla Hoy”, . The following sub window opens up:

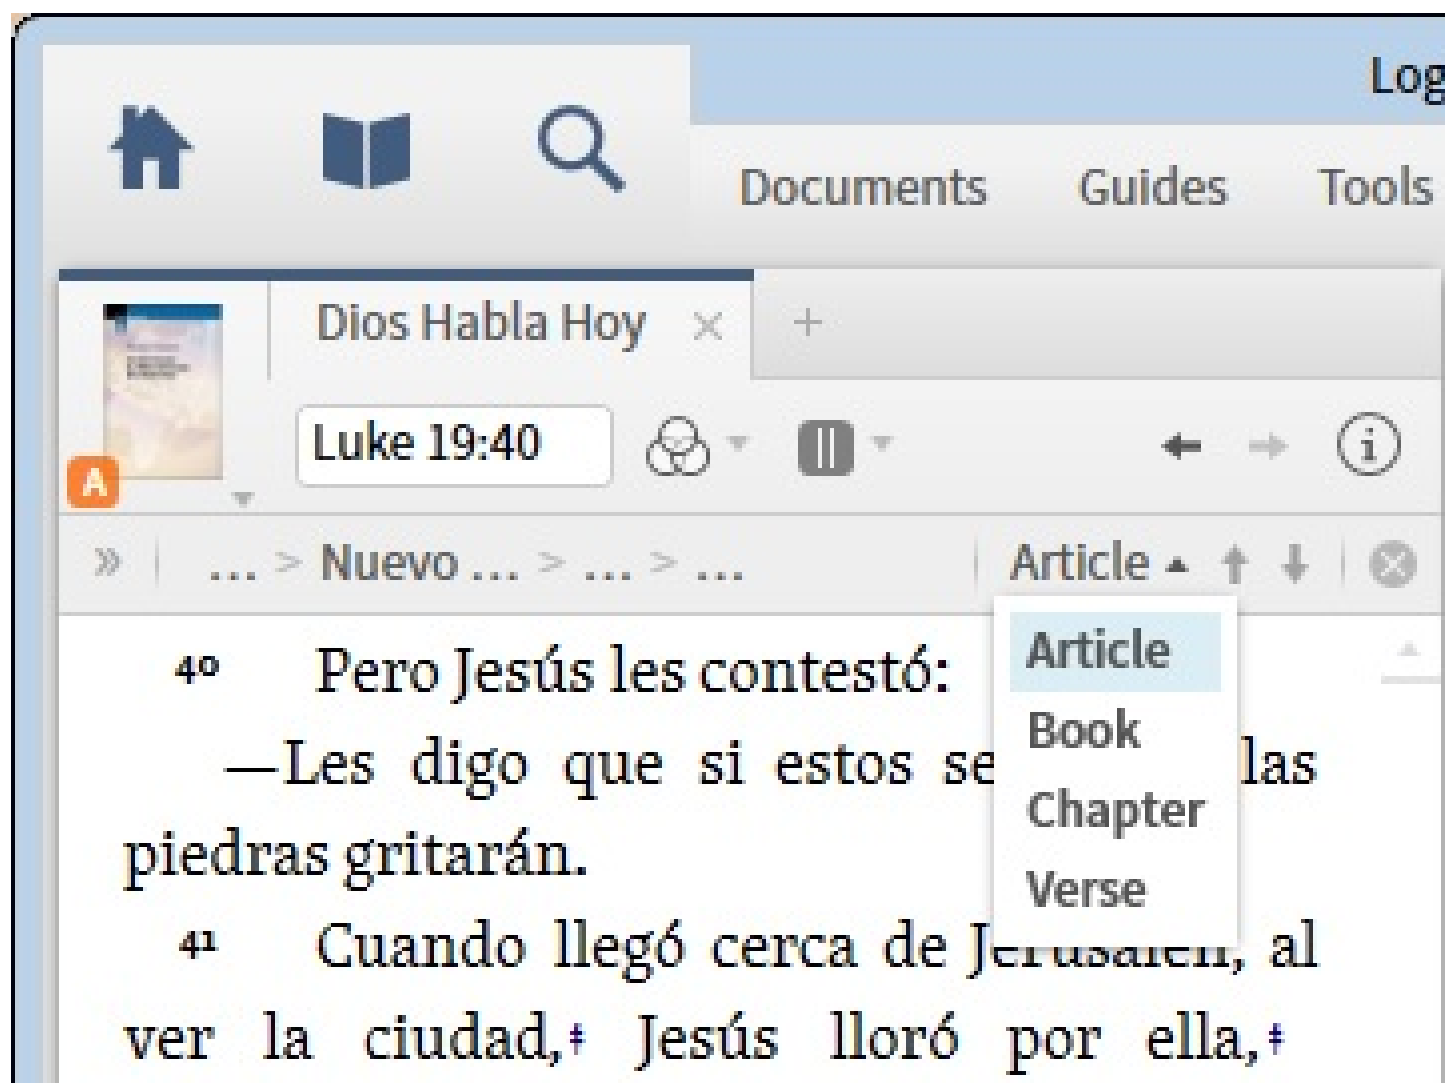

Select Link set A. Note that there is now a letter “A” in a small orange box to the lower left corner of the book icon,

This now identifies “Dios Habla Hoy” as being in Link set A. In the same way, put “La Biblia de las Américas” in Link set A. With both resources in the same Link set, you can scroll either of the two resources, and the other resource scrolls to the same reference. For example, scroll “La Biblia de las Américas” to Luke 19:40, and “Dios Habla Hoy” will scroll to the same reference. If you want, you can set even other resources to Link set A, and they all will scroll together.

Using Up and Down Arrows

Another way to move both resources together is by using the up and down arrows in the locator bar next to “Article”, Article ▾ ↑ ↓ | ✕ . Pressing the up arrow moves to the previous article in the given resource. Pressing the down arrow moves to the next article. The other resources in Link set A will likewise move to the same location.

The screenshot shows a Bible software interface. At the top, there are navigation icons (home, book, search) and a 'Log' button. Below these are tabs for 'Documents', 'Guides', and 'Tools'. A document titled 'Dios Habla Hoy' is open, with a reference 'Luke 19:40' displayed in a box. To the right of the reference is a dropdown menu with the label 'Article' and a triangle icon. The menu is open, showing options: 'Article', 'Book', 'Chapter', and 'Verse'. The background text of the document is visible, showing the verse text in Spanish.

40 Pero Jesús les contestó:
—Les digo que si estos se las piedras gritarán.
41 Cuando llegó cerca de Jerusalem, al
ver la ciudad,† Jesús lloró por ella,†

The triangle to the right of Article lets you also choose Book, Chapter, or Verse. Then, rather than moving the given resource to the previous or next article, you can move to the previous or next Book, Chapter, or Verse.
