Paul's Third Missionary Journey

The map illustrates Paul's third missionary journey, starting from Antioch in Syria and heading west through Cilicia, Galatia, and Macedonia, eventually reaching Greece. Key locations marked include Antioch, Tarsus, Iconium, Lystra, Derbe, Philippi, Thessalonica, and Corinth. The map also shows the surrounding regions of Macedonia, Thrace, Bithynia and Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Commagene, Syria, Nabatea, Judea, and Paphlagonia. A legend indicates that red dots represent cities and yellow dots represent one of the 'Seven Churches' (Rev. 2-3). A scale bar shows 200 miles and 300 kilometers. An inset map in the top right corner shows the broader geographical context of the journey.

Note in the left column, at the top, the general information and verses associated with Macedonia. You can also look for information on Macedonia under DICTIONARIES, LEMMAS, REFERRED TO AS, and SEE ALSO.

In the same way, you can find facts about people, such as "Paul", and things, such as "gold".
